“Boss 429”

A realistic drawing I made of my dream car: the Mustang '69 Boss 429. This drawing took me around 30-40 hours to make, mostly because I was very unfamiliar on drawing like this on digital formats. I have drawn like this with pencil and paper, but digitally has been a challenge to get the hang of. Getting it like this has been extremely satisfying, and although imperfect, it's been very rewarding to get it looking this good.

Methods

For this, I used a base of three layers of shading, one light, one medium and one dark. I used the pencil tool for the tone, used the blending tool to soften it and the soft eraser to give it it's correct shape.
